CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

The Third Reading of the Draft Finished Saturday.

ONLY ONE DAY'S WORK NOW TO DO.

The Committee on Revision Will Make a Very Few Unimportant Changes, and Then the Work is Over—Convention Members Photographed by Williams.

Twenty-Second Day.
 SATURDAY, June 30, 1894.

The Convention was called to order at 10 o'clock Saturday morning by President Dole. After prayer and roll call, the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A communication from the American League was read, congratulating the Convention on its work. On motion of Delegate Baldwin, the letter was received with thanks and laid on the table.

The following petition was read from Mrs. F. S. Pratt. It was laid on the table:

HONOLULU, HAWAIIAN ISLANDS, June 30, 1894.
 To HIS EXCELLENCY SANFORD B. DOLE, President of the Constitutional Convention.

SIR—The undersigned, Elizabeth Kekaaniau Pratt, deeming it necessary for the protection of her rights, hereby respectfully makes known that she is an heir of the royal line of Ikaemahameha, and that by virtue of such heirship she is a claimant to the crown lands of the Hawaiian Islands. She therefore respectfully protests against the embodying in the Constitution of any provision whereby her claims in the premises are prejudiced or ignored.

And she has the honor to remain, Very respectfully,
 Your obedient servant,
 ELIZABETH KEKAANIAU PRATT.

Delegate Carter reported from the Committee on Revision a printed copy of the draft of the Constitution for final reading. It tendered thanks to Prof. W. D. Alexander and Rev. S. E. Bishop for assistance.

A long discussion took place on the method of procedure in dealing with the report of the committee. It was finally decided to consider the amendments of the committee with the third reading of the amended draft.

Delegate Kalua reported from the Committee on Arrangements for the Promulgation of the Constitution, that the ceremony would take place at 8 A.M. on the 4th of July. The President would take the oath of office and announce the Cabinet, the members of which would also take the oath, and an opportunity would be given all persons to take the oath of allegiance. There would be a display of flags and salutes, but no military display.

Delegate Kahaulelio moved that badges be prepared for members of the Convention.
 Carried.

Delegate Robertson introduced a resolution that the Convention be photographed in a group at 2 P.M., and that all the members attend, so as to make the group complete.

The resolution was carried.
 Third reading of the draft was then proceeded with.
 Delegate Carter moved to transpose the first thirteen articles to follow Article 86, so that the Article on "The Republic" should begin the Constitution.

Councillor Allen objected. The basis of the Constitution should be the original Constitution had been more closely followed.

President Dole ruled that the motion was out of order until after the reading of the articles.
 On the articles up to 14 passing, Delegate Carter renewed his motion of transposition of the first thirteen articles.

Councillor Allen said the declaration of rights of person and property motion for McCandless seconded the pages before they had read several more finding what the government was.

Delegate Baldwin moved that article 1 to 1, inclusive lead off.
 Councillor Waterhouse moved reconsideration, which was carried.
 Minister Smith hoped there would be no change of arrangement. The declaration of rights was the first thing in the Constitution of California.

Delegate Carter retorted that there was no State in the Union which had a Constitution more marked with eccentricities than that of California. While nobody exceeded him in admiration of the Constitution of the United States, he would still say that the average schoolboy could improve on its arrangement. On a motion by Delegate Baldwin, that the articles stand as in the bill, Delegate Carter said the committee was surely entitled to some consideration, having not had a day off, but worked hard all day in his office, besides attending to the printing of the revised draft. If this was the reception the Committee was going to receive, then the Convention had better get other gentlemen to complete the work.

Councillor Allen considered that other members of the Convention had a right to their opinions as well as the Committee.
 The Convention decided to retain the arrangement as in the draft.
 A recess was then taken until 1:30.

AFTERNOON SESSION.
 The Convention met again at 1:30.

Delegate Carter regretted exceedingly that he had shown any temper during the morning, but he thought it was because of the night work he had put on this Constitution. He begged, however, to be relieved from further duty on the Committee of Revision. This was partly because he had conscientious scruples against working on Sunday.

President Dole said he hoped Delegate Carter would reconsider his action. He had become accustomed to the work, and had done well, and he would be sorry to see him resign.

Delegate Carter said he thought he had done his share of the work, and thought he was entitled to a day of rest on Sunday.

After Article 31 had been read and passed, Minister Smith said that there was an omission that should be remedied. There had been no provision made that the President should be the commander-in-chief of the military forces of the Republic. He moved to suspend the rules and insert the following article, to be numbered Article 32:

"The President is the commander-in-chief of all the military forces of the Republic."
 The motion was carried and the article inserted.

When Article 87 was reached, Councillor McCandless moved to insert the words, in Section 2, "and all licensed to practice law." There was a chance that any lawyer might be required to sit on the Supreme Bench in case of the disqualification of any Supreme Justice. This would render it possible for any one, whether he had taken the oath of allegiance or not, to decide on questions affecting this Constitution.

Councillor Brown said he wished to be excused from voting on the question. He was a member of the bar, and he did not want it said that he had voted to make the bar a close corporation.

Minister Smith thought that this was going a little too far. He did not think it necessary to revoke a lawyer's license any more than to take away that of a physician.

Councillor Tenney did not like the amendment. It seemed to be directed at a few lawyers with royalistic tendencies.

Minister Hatch said he could not support the proposed amendment. He did not think it right to take away a man's source of living because he was against this form of government.

Delegate Iosepa thought the amendment was a sound one.
 The amendment was lost.

In Article 99 Councillor McCandless moved to insert the words "or any member of the bar of the Supreme or any inferior court," thus making it imperative for every lawyer to take the oath of allegiance to the Republic.

The vote resulted in a tie, and the President voted against the amendment.
 After all of the articles had been passed, Minister Hatch moved to reconsider Article 24, referring to the President. He moved to insert the words, "The President shall, at stated times receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive, within that period, any other emolument from the Republic."

The amendment passed and was made Article 25.
 The President appointed Delegates in place of those who had resigned. Delegate Carter on the Committee on Revision.

The Convention adjourned until 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Parc.'s Post Service.
 MR. EDITOR: Let us have the Parcel Post. I hear with much satisfaction that a motion is being made by the Postmaster General to get the Hawaiian Government to introduce the Parcel Post Service into these islands. I don't know if such be the case or not, but I do know that such a thing would be a great advantage, if it is not a necessity, and if Mr. Oat wants to earn the thanks and approbation of the people of these islands, he cannot do better than to bring this branch of the postal service into use here just as fast as possible.

I may say, for my part, that I have lately sent to England for something, and have ordered it sent by Parcel Post, not dreaming even that Hawaii was so far behind the times as to be without so useful a service. And it was only by accident that I heard there was none.

It is to be hoped that if Mr. Oat is doing anything in this direction the Provisional Government will promptly look into the matter, and if such a service would be for the general good, adopt it. Now as the Provisional Government under the present regime seems inclined to pursue a policy of advancement, and to adopt such measures as are likely to be of real benefit to the country and the people, it is to be hoped they will adopt this, and confer a lasting favor upon the whole nation.

I remain yours truly,
 GKO. OSBORNE.
 Kukaiau, Hawaii, June 24, 1894.
